

The Hebrew Language

Have you ever asked yourselves how the Hebrew language was preserved for thousands of years, and was transformed into a spoken language?

We are speaking about an ancient, 3000-year-old language!

The answer is- in merit of prayer!

The daily, constant use of the Hebrew language by Jewish people, despite them not speaking it in their daily lives, is the secret to the preservation of the Hebrew language for such a long time.

When we, the Jewish people, speak the Hebrew language, we are preserving our identity. Hebrew is an inseparable part of the identity of the Jewish people- it connects us to earlier generations and to future generations, to Jews from the Bible and to Jews in the twenty-first century. By preserving the Hebrew language, each and every one of us is presented with the opportunity to be part of our Jewish tradition and chain. The Hebrew language is what connects all Jewish people around the world, in every generation!
